COPPER.

The first established factories used the copper for the boiling of sugar cane juice to make sugar. The copper was also used for storing water for animals.