

UWItv to honour regional broadcaster Julian Rogers

BRIDGETOWN

THE multimedia public information and education service of The University of the West Indies, UWItv, will honour regional broadcaster Julian Rogers as it celebrates the milestone of its first anniversary this week.

UWItv, which was launched on November 25, 2016 and went live in December 2016, will mark the success of the platform with a celebratory event and awards ceremony tomorrow at the Errol Barrow Centre for Creative Imagination, at UWI's Cave Hill Campus here.

Guided by its ethos "Caribbean matters", UWItv deemed it fitting to pay tribute to Rogers's 54-year career of contributions to Caribbean press, radio and television and as a ground-breaking presenter and programme-maker, owner/manager, trainer and consultant.

He is well known for his track record of transforming new, independent radio stations into market leaders and national institutions, particularly throughout the 1980s and 1990s, and has remained at the forefront of building new media brands throughout the turn of the new century.

Promoting activism

In addition to his numerous career highlights, Rogers has been an adviser to several regional and international institutions on media development and training and has sat on the Regional Advisory Board of The UWI's Caribbean Institute for Media and Communication.

UWItv is a tripartite partnership involving The UWI, CaribVision (the regional cable service of the Caribbean Media Corporation), and the RJR Group in Jamaica.

It delivers three hours of programming daily to millions of viewers across the region, as well as the large Caribbean Diaspora communities in New York, Toronto, Montreal, London and continental Europe.

Its traditional television broadcasting is complemented by a robust web and social media presence which allows users access to content in real time or on demand.

CELEBRATING A MILESTONE: Julian Rogers

UWItv's diverse Caribbean-focused programming features the intellectual content of the regional university.

It is central to The UWI's mission as a vehicle for disseminating knowledge, stimulating critical thinking, promoting activism and nurturing leaders in every sphere of Caribbean life.

In its first year of operations, UWItv has sought to drive regionalism through solution-based discourse and public education.

The anniversary programme will include a feature address by president of Caribbean Broadcasting Union (CBU), Gary Allen.
