

Remember the old days?

A NEW steelband from St. James, Tripolians, turned up at the Panorama preliminaries yesterday with a shocker that turned out to be a favourite with the crowds.

Apart from bringing back the oldtime pans strapped to the neck (see in picture) the musicians came on stage beating and singing their own adaptation of the old election ballad - "Run yo' Run", cussing and all.

They threw their punches mainly at the chairman of the Carnival Development Committee, Ivan Williams. (For the full Panorama story, see Centre Pages).
