

Steelband concert

Steelband music in the South seems to be losing its glamour, for at the Southern Steelband Association competition preliminaries held at Palms Club on Monday night, only three of the seven bands carded to take part in the competition, turned up.

The enthusiastic audience who packed the place had to be content with music which was not at all up to standard.

"Sundowners" popular teenagers side of San Fernando who rendered "Tomorrow I Will Live" and a bolero were acclaimed winners.

The other two "Fascinators" and "Youth Stars" fell into a tie for second place.

The first prize in the finals which will be played off at the same venue will be $100, second $50 and third prize $25.

Highlight for the evening was the record breaking limbo dance of Peter Mewar, member of the George Hayes' Afro-Cuban dancers, going under the bart at six inches.
