

Abstract.

This paper investigates the quality of halal meat from the consumers' perspective. Consumer perception varies according to location, religion, race etc. in this paper perspective from location and religion will be taken into account. This will be done by a series of questionnaires distributed among persons from two different extremes, Muslim and Non-Muslim. The results are to be tabulated and analysed.