

Corporate HANDS

To participate, send captioned pictures of the projects you have sponsored to editorial@wgn.com

JAHJAH Foundation donates 14 machines to hospitals

Executive Director of the Health for Life and Wellness Foundation in the Ministry of Health and Wellness, Courtney Cephas (right), looks at one of the 14 Bilevel Positive Airway Pressure machines donated to 12 hospitals by the Jamaicans Abroad Helping Jamaicans at Home (JAHJAH) Foundation, while Chief Executive Officer of JAHJAH, Dr Trevor Dixon (second right), points out the features. Occasion was the presentation ceremony at The Knutsford Court Hotel in New Kingston last Tuesday. Others pictured (from left) are accident and emergency consultant at the Kingston Public Hospital, Dr Hugh Wong; and Assistant Director of Nursing at the United States (US)-based Montefiore Medical Centre, Coleen Robinson-Cobblah. CONTRIBUTED

Chief Executive Officer of the Jamaicans Abroad Helping Jamaicans at Home (JAHJAH) Foundation, Dr Trevor Dixon (centre), shares a photo opportunity with representatives of the 12 hospitals which were presented with Bilevel Positive Airway Pressure machines at The Knutsford Court Hotel in New Kingston last week. CONTRIBUTED

Desnoes & Geddes Foundation gifts school with PEP books

The Desnoes and Geddes (D&G) Foundation recently donated 45 Primary Exit Profile (PEP) language arts textbooks to DuPont Primary and Infant School. Tyheissa Williams (centre), a member of the D&G Foundation, joins a few grade-six students who will be taking the exams this year. CONTRIBUTED

Scotiabank pledges to increase scholarship support to UWI

Brendan King (back centre), senior vice-president, Scotiabank International Banking, and team members with The University of the West Indies (UWI) executives and UWI Toronto Gala Scholarship recipients. The UWI celebrates Scotiabank's commitment to extend title sponsorship of The UWI Toronto Benefit Gala for another five years. King made the revelation during a visit to The UWI last week. He also shared Scotiabank's pledge to increase its annual support for student scholarships to CDN$75,000 annually for a five-year cycle as well. CONTRIBUTED

Wisynco awards primary-school children

Proud George Headley Primary School students and members of the Environmental Club celebrate their number-one position as the leading school in the first phase of Wisynco ECO's 2019-2020 Eco Club Bottle Drive Competition recently. The competition, facilitated through the company's ECO Club programme, saw the Kingston-based institution tallying 279,696 bottles for the September to December school term. CONTRIBUTED

Coordinating teacher Roshene Mendez (left, rear) looks on as environment communication officer at Wisynco, Shelly-Ann Dunkley (left, front) shares congratulatory high-fives recently with George Headley Primary School students in celebration of their number-one position in the first phase of Wisynco ECO's 2019-2020 Eco Club Bottle Drive Competition. CONTRIBUTED