

NATIVE BURDEN BEARERS IN TRINIDAD

POST CARD

New York, March 5, 1928

After a delightfully smooth passage from Barbados, the "Reliance" arrived at Port of Spain, Trinidad early yesterday morning, as per schedule, according to a radio message just received, and your friends will remain in The Land of the Humming Bird until this evening. During this time excursions are being made into the Santa Cruz and Maraval Valleys among banana, cocoa and sugar plantations and to a real East Indian coolie village; to the famous Pitch Lake which supplies asphalt for good roads everywhere, and to Gasparee Island with its beautiful caves.

The passengers have expressed their delight of the many features of the cruise and the excellence of the table and service. Dances and entertainments continue. The "Reliance" next touches at La Guayra, Venezuela on the mainland of South America, March 7th.

HAMBURG-AMERICAN LINE

TRINIDAD is a semi-oriental island, about one-third of the population being of Hindu origin. It is believed here that the souls of the dead live in the myriads of beautiful humming birds that flit about. Port of Spain is the capital. The main exports are sugar, molasses, cocoa and coffee. The island was discovered by Columbus in 1488.
