Guardian 15 Feb. 1956, p. 9.

Steel Bands' Behaviour Wins Praise

Guardian Staff Reporter

SAN FERNANDO, Feb. 15—Steelbandsmen in San Fernando came in for high praise "on their splendid behaviour" during the two days Carnival celebrations, by Mr. James Reid, Superintendent of Police, Southern Division, this morning.

He also congratulated the public on their behaviour. The crowd this year was the biggest he had seen, but in spite of this the general conduct and behaviour of the people were exemplary."

Mr. Reid regretted however, that in spite of the publicity given in the Press of special Carnival regulations with respect to persons carrying offensive weapons, a few still had such weapons in their possession. Some of them were arrested and charged.

Mr. Reid also had a good word to say about motorists. He said that they drove so well that only nine persons suffered slight injuries. He felt they also did a good job in preventing traffic jams.