

Brooks arranges for Hatters

AS the search for supremacy in the Panorama competition continues, super pannist Earl Brooks will again arrange for Hatters of San Fernando, and Potential Symphony of Malick.

Last year Brooks was voted best pan soloist in the the Best Village competition. As usual he played with the Malick Folk Performers which group he has been with for the past three years.

Brooks had first gotten into the competition one year before he joined Malick, with the Irvine Street Village Council.

That year he also won best pan soloist.

Some of the highlights of 1987 for Brooks includes going to Guadeloupe with Malick for a folk festival there. Guadeloupe is beautiful, he said, just like Trinidad.

In addition to his duties as arrangers for these two bands Brooks will be playing with the band of which he has been a member for years, Phase II Pan Groove.

'FOR THE LOVE OF LAW'

PRESENTATION College, San Fernando, in collaboration with the Theatre Horizon are set to perform For the Love of Law at the school's auditorium, on Friday, January 22 and 23.

The play recently performed at the Secondary School's Drama Festival, was written and directed by young Richard Bickram.

It questions the use of power by those in authority, to gain wealth through the pushing of illegal drugs and gun importation. The cast which comprises mainly of fourth form students, include award winning actors Marlon Thompson, Ray Stoute, Zack Farmer, Paul Attong, Kevin Mack and Damien Gonzalves.

Showtime is 8:30 p.m. and admission is $10.
