

Gender, Development and Social Change

Series Editor

Wendy Harcourt, The International Institute of Social Studies, Erasmus University, The Hague, The Netherlands

The Gender, Development and Social Change series brings together path-breaking writing from gender scholars and activist researchers who are engaged in development as a process of transformation and change. The series pinpoints where gender and development analysis and practice are creating major 'change moments'. Multidisciplinary in scope, it features some of the most important and innovative gender perspectives on development knowledge, policy and social change. The distinctive feature of the series is its dual nature: to publish both scholarly research on key issues informing the gender and development agenda as well as featuring young scholars and activists' accounts of how gender analysis and practice is shaping political and social development processes. The authors aim to capture innovative thinking on a range of hot spot gender and development debates from women's lives on the margins to high level global politics. Each book pivots around a key 'social change' moment or process conceptually envisaged from an intersectional, gender and rights based approach to development.

More information about this series at <http://www.palgrave.com/gp/series/14999>

Ann Marie Bissessar · Camille Huggins
Editors

Gender and Domestic Violence
in the Caribbean

palgrave
macmillan

Editors

Ann Marie Bissessar
Faculty of Social Sciences
University of the West Indies
St Augustine, Trinidad and Tobago

Camille Huggins
Department of Behavioural Sciences
University of the West Indies
St Augustine, Trinidad and Tobago

ISSN 2730-7328

ISSN 2730-7336 (electronic)

Gender, Development and Social Change

ISBN 978-3-030-73471-8

ISBN 978-3-030-73472-5 (eBook)

<https://doi.org/10.1007/978-3-030-73472-5>

© The Editor(s) (if applicable) and The Author(s), under exclusive license to Springer
Nature Switzerland AG 2021

This work is subject to copyright. All rights are solely and exclusively licensed by the Publisher, whether the whole or part of the material is concerned, specifically the rights of translation, reprinting, reuse of illustrations, recitation, broadcasting, reproduction on microfilms or in any other physical way, and transmission or information storage and retrieval, electronic adaptation, computer software, or by similar or dissimilar methodology now known or hereafter developed.

The use of general descriptive names, registered names, trademarks, service marks, etc.
in this publication does not imply, even in the absence of a specific statement, that such names are exempt from the relevant protective laws and regulations and therefore free for general use.

The publisher, the authors and the editors are safe to assume that the advice and information in this book are believed to be true and accurate at the date of publication. Neither the publisher nor the authors or the editors give a warranty, expressed or implied, with respect to the material contained herein or for any errors or omissions that may have been made. The publisher remains neutral with regard to jurisdictional claims in published maps and institutional affiliations.

Cover illustration: Original cover design by Serena Dinelli

This Palgrave Macmillan imprint is published by the registered company Springer Nature
Switzerland AG

The registered company address is: Gewerbestrasse 11, 6330 Cham, Switzerland

The original version of the frontmatter was revised. Godfrey A. Steele's biography has been updated. Corrections to this chapter can be found at <https://doi.org/10.1007/978-3-030-73472-4>.

CONTENTS

1	Introduction	1
	Ann Marie Bissessar
2	Domestic Violence in the Caribbean: Are Our Solutions Effective?	9
	Jacqueline H. Stephenson
3	Symbolic Violence in the Postcolonial Anglo-Caribbean	23
	Shelene Gomes and Amílcar Sanatan
4	Exploring Domestic Violence Issues and Resolutions Through Epic Theatre and Forum Theatre: The Good, the Baddesse and the Ugly	39
	Godfrey A. Steele
5	Phenomenology as Methodology for Narrating Gender Perceptions on “Linguistic Violence” as Domestic Violence	67
	Moyia Rowtham
6	Literature as an Agent of Change	87
	Petronetta Pierre-Robertson

7	Trinidad and Tobago's Legal Response to Domestic Violence: Incomplete and Inadequate Without a Focus on Achieving Substantive Equality	105
	Afiya France
8	Historicizing Domestic Violence: The Ills of Indenture Ship?	125
	Ann Marie Bissessar
9	The Personal Is Political: Domestic Violence and Feminist Participation in Bolivarian Venezuela	139
	Sandra Angeleri and María Mercedes Cobo Echenagucia
10	Literary Evocations of Violence (Psychic and Physical) in Selected Works by Indo-Trinidadian Women Writers	157
	Victoria V. Chang
11	Understanding Domestic Violence from the Perspective of Trinidadian Men	175
	Michelle Thomas
12	Why Women Stay: Understanding the Trauma Bond Between Victim and Abuser Case Studies Were Written	195
	Linda Hadeed
13	The Women in Seafood Landscape: A Look at the Social and Economic Challenges of Gender-Based Violence	209
	Debra D. Joseph and Roshnie A. Doon
14	Surviving Domestic and Intimate Partner Violence	239
	Sherna J. A. Alexander Benjamin
15	'Deepening the Dialogue—Strengthening Domestic Violence Policy and Charting a Way Forward'	257
	Oscar Noel Ocho
16	Accounting for Episodes of Domestic Violence in the Anglophone Caribbean: Novel Achievements in the Midst of Persistent Challenges	273
	Godfrey St. Bernard

17	Through the Eyes of the Perpetrator: The Historical and Contemporary Cultural Context of Intimate Partner Violence in the Caribbean	299
	Camille Huggins
Index		317

NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS

Sherna J. A. Alexander Benjamin is majoring in Social Work at Huntington University, Indiana, USA. She is a thriving survivor, systems advocate, and Human and Social Development Practitioner with over fourteen years of experience in the areas of prevention of interpersonal violence, women, peace and security, development leadership, and conflict transformation and peacebuilding. She centers her work on power, access and control, transformative change processes, intersectionality, critical consciousness, and social justice. Her areas of interests include adult education; healthy relationship building and emotional wellness; economic and social development of women; diversity and inclusion; systems related racial disparities; child abuse and intimate partner violence; healing-centered engagements; and ways in which systemic, structural, symbolic, and political violence enable trauma at the individual, family, and community levels.

Sandra Angeleri has been a Professor in Theory of Knowledge at the Anthropology Department of the Central University of Venezuela from 1997 to 2019. She approached the Geopolitics of Knowledge from a Latin American decolonial studies perspective. A number of key life experiences have shaped the direction of her scholarship, including most notably, living through the breakdown of the Welfare State in Uruguay and under the dictatorship that sent her into exile. Her ongoing efforts examine and critique the gender and ethnic contradictions of the communal Bolivarian national and continental project, while remaining steadfastly in support of the revolutionary project. Her recent publications include: “Political Function of Human Rights in the Context of National Liberation Struggles” (W/R. Williams, Revista Cuestiones Políticas, 2015), “The Bolivarian Venezuelan Constitution’s Declaration of Human Rights: The Case of Barrio Adentro” (W/M. Lascano, CLACSO, 2015), “Seventh Summit of the Americas,” and “Old colonial forms and ethnogenesis of the Patria Grande” (Cuadernos de Pensamiento Crítico, CLACSO, 2016).

Ann Marie Bissessar Professor of Public Management, Department of Political Science, The University of the West Indies, St Augustine Campus, Trinidad and Tobago. Former Dean of the Faculty of Social Sciences, UWI (2015–2019), Head, Department of Behavioural Sciences (2010–2013), Deputy Dean, Faculty of Social Sciences (2001–2003), Member of the Integrity Commission of Trinidad and Tobago (2010–2013), Vice Chancellor Award (2019) in the field of research and service to the University. Author/co-author of twenty books and over 100 articles/chapters in books.

Victoria V. Chang currently holds a B.A. and an M.A. in Literatures in English from the University of the West Indies, St. Augustine, Trinidad and Tobago. She is currently a full-time, Ph.D.—Literatures in English candidate at that institution and works as an academic Tutor in the Literary, Cultural, and Communication Studies (LCCS) department. Her core research interests pertain to issues of gender, identity, culture, and ethnicity as well as nationhood. Presently, her thesis focuses on literary representations of female identities in the novel form, with added emphasis on the ways in which selected fictional characters are constructed in light of, and in response to, historical stereotypes of East Indian women in the Caribbean. She is also one of two Caribbean scholarship recipients of the “Other Universals” project, a supra-national project supported by the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, which seeks to develop comparative scholarship on traditions of thought that speak to universal predicaments from historically specific locations.

María Mercedes Cobo Echenagucia Venezuela, Bachelor of Social Communication, mention Journalism, Bicentennial University of Aragua (UBA) (2001). Radio announcer and producer. Magister in Venezuelan, Latin American and Caribbean Sociopolitical Integration Processes. Institute of Advanced Studies (IDEA) (2017). Among her published articles are: “Walking Together. Genealogy of the Struggles of Women in Three Organizations of the Popular Power of the Bolivarian Revolution” in Venezuelan Magazine of Women’s Studies No. 50 Vol. 23, 2018, and “The Daughters of Eva Disobey Through the Censored Word” in “Religion,” Journal of Social Sciences and Humanities, 2018.

Dr. Roshnie A. Doon is a former Ph.D. candidate in Economic Development Policy at the Sir Arthur Lewis Institute of Social and Economic Studies (SALISES), and a Research Assistant at the Department of Management Studies, at the University of the West Indies (UWI), St. Augustine, Trinidad. Dr. Doon holds a Ph.D. in Economic Development Policy, an M.Sc. in Economics, and a B.Sc. in Economics and Management Studies (with honors). She has undertaken previous research in the areas of International Trade, Trade Unionization and Militancy, Unemployment, Corporate Social Responsibility, as well as techniques of transparency and accountability used in Extractive industries. Her current research interests have focused heavily on the intersection between Labour and Educational Economics, as well as Applied Econometrics, with special concentration on the area of Education, Educational Mismatch, and Minorities in STEM.

Afiya France is an Attorney-at-Law and Lecturer at the Faculty of Law, UWI, St. Augustine, and Trinidad. She teaches Family Law 1 (law related to intimate relationships), Family Law 2 (law related to children), Alternative Dispute Resolution and Discrimination in Employment. Her research and writing centers on the areas of Disability Law, Discrimination Law, and Human Rights.

Afiya graduated as a Harlan Fiske Stone Scholar upon obtaining her LLM from Columbia Law School NY. Prior to joining academia, Afiya practiced law for five years in the civil litigation department of Trinidadian law firm, Fitzwilliam, Stone, Furness-Smith and Morgan. She appeared as an advocate before the courts of Trinidad and Tobago, including the Industrial Court, Magistrates’ Court, High Court, and Court of Appeal, in various matters. Now an academic, in addition to teaching and research, she utilizes her advocacy skills to promote the rights of the disenfranchised, before the Equal Opportunities Tribunal.

Shelene Gomes, Ph.D. is a Sociocultural Anthropologist at The University of the West Indies, St. Augustine Campus whose research interests include the politics of gendered subjectivities, migration, cosmopolitanism, slow violence, and the transnational Caribbean. Her most recent work appears in African and Black Diaspora: An International Journal, The Global South and Virtual Brazilian Anthropology.

Dr. Linda Hadeed is a seasoned Lecturer and Practitioner in Trinidad and Tobago from 2003 to the present. She focuses her practice on mental health issues for individuals, couples, and families with a subspecialty in trauma. She has established a reputation for proficiency in partner abuse and suicide prevention. As a full-time tenured lecturer at the University of the West Indies, St. Augustine from 2003–2017, Dr. Hadeed taught and directed the social work and mediation programs. Her experience in curriculum review and income-generating activities served to sustain the two programs. During her tenure as Deputy Dean for Graduate Studies and Research, she developed systems that ensured the timely disbursement of graduate matters including the speedy throughput of graduate students. She is frequently asked to serve on boards in Trinidad that provide social services to community members as well as awards committees. Currently, Dr. Hadeed is a contributing faculty member at Walden University and Simmons College, USA, online Social Work Master's Programs.

Dr. Camille Huggins was born and spent most of her life in New York City in the United States. She moved to Trinidad, West Indies five years ago and became a Lecturer at the University of the West Indies with the Faculty of Social Science since 2015. During her tenure at UWI she has won monetary grants from Quinnipiac University, Connecticut, USA to establish a student exchange program for post-graduate students from UWI and Quinnipiac University. As well as, from the International Association of Schools of Social Work to establish disaster preparedness programs for social work students and professionals working with clients experiencing natural or man-made disasters.

Dr. Huggins obtained a Ph.D. in clinical social work from New York University; Master's degree in Social Work from Columbia University in New York and a Bachelors' degree in Sociology from the State University of New York at Buffalo. Prior to moving into academia, she worked in administration at various acute and long-term healthcare facilities for over 15 years. Her area of research is reactions to trauma and grief as she is currently conducting research on grieving mothers of murdered children.

Debra D. Joseph, Ph.D. is a Lecturer in Social Work and Coordinator of the Social Work Graduate Program at the University of the West Indies, Cave Hill. Dr. Joseph holds a Bachelor of Science Degree in Social Work with a minor in Psychology with First Class Honours and a Master of Social Work (Clinical) from the University of the West Indies, St. Augustine, Trinidad. She is also a Clinical Social Worker who has been working with individuals and families for over fourteen years. Her research interests have been regional, in the field of HIV/AIDS, environmental justice and sustainability, domestic violence, teaching and learning and women in fisheries. Her current publications include: HIV/AIDS, environmental justice and sustainability, and domestic violence. Dr. Joseph's focus is primarily on research with women and girls. She recently coped the 2019 Jeremy Collymore Award for Research in Humanitarian Response and Disaster Risk Management for 2019 from CEDEMA.

Oscar Noel Ocho is a Registered Nurse (RN) and was a public servant for 34 years prior to joining the University of the West Indies School of Nursing as the Director in 2015. He served in a number of departments within the Ministry of Health including Registered Nurse, Nursing Educator, Health Education Officer, Director as well as the Acting Chief Nursing Officer. Dr. Ocho is a Packard/Gates Population Leadership Fellow from the University of Washington, Seattle, USA as well as one of the first cohort of professionals in the Caribbean Health Leadership Institute scholarship program for health leaders in the Caribbean. His Doctorate is in the area of Public Health with an emphasis on Public Health and Policy, 2013. His research interest is in health systems and gender and has been published in a number of refereed journals.

Petronetta Pierre-Robertson Editor, Caribbean Curriculum Documentalist/Indexer CERIS School of Education University of the West Indies St Augustine. Website: <https://libraries.sta.uwi.edu/ceris/>

Dr. Moyia Rowtham is a proud graduate of the Mico Teachers' College (now Mico University College) and the University of the West Indies (Mona and St. Augustine). Dr. Rowtham considers herself a Caribbeanist and has educated students in Jamaica, Trinidad, Barbados, and St. Kitts-Nevis. She is a knowledge enabler, whose research interests span the observation of human ecosystems and finding solutions for various interpersonal spheres. As a published author with almost twenty years within the field of education, she seeks to create relevant pathways to enhance student learning and teacher-professional practices, as well as to evaluate education systems and provide meaningful solutions for sustainable outcomes. Her specialized interest also focuses on the multifaceted nature of the communication process, including the use of language as a tool to engage in critical reflection in order to effectively navigate oneself through life's experiences. As a court-trained mediator, Moyia perceives the effective use of language as a viable tool to resolve conflicts and to explore the ramifications of human experiences related to violence and other manifestations of human behavior. Dr. Rowtham currently serves as the Vice-President of Academic and Student Affairs (VPASA) at the Clarence Fitzroy Bryant College in St. Kitts-Nevis.

Amílcar Sanatan is an Artist, Academic, and Activist. He is a Ph.D. candidate in Cultural Studies at The University of the West Indies, St. Augustine Campus. His research interests include men and masculinities in the Caribbean, youth and student development, and cultural geography. Sanatan serves as the Trinidad and Tobago representative for the Commonwealth Students Association and coordinator of the UWI Socialist Student Conference.

Dr. Godfrey St. Bernard is a Senior Fellow in the Sir Arthur Lewis Institute of Social and Economic Studies (SALISES), The University of the West Indies, St. Augustine, Trinidad and Tobago. Between 1980 and 1987, he worked as a statistician in the Central Statistical Office (CSO) in Trinidad and Tobago and was responsible for the production of social and vital statistics published by the CSO.

He obtained a B.A. Mathematics and Economics (1980) from The University of the West Indies, St. Augustine and an M.A. Sociology (1989) and Ph.D. Social Demography (1993) from the University of Western Ontario. He was the recipient of two prestigious fellowships that permitted him to complete his post-graduate studies at the University of Western Ontario—a CIDA/CELADE Fellowship (1987–1991) and a Population Council Fellowship during 1991–1992. In 2018, he became inducted into the Trinity College Alumni Hall of Fame and also was a recipient of the 2018 Meritorious Service Award of the Trinidad and Tobago United Community Association, New York City.

His current academic interests include problems akin to population and development, applied statistical analysis, research methodology, evaluation research, and social policy. His current research interests focus upon children and youth, population policy and dynamics in the Circum-Caribbean, violence prevention and safety promotion, vulnerability and resilience in small states, return migration, and the measurement of social phenomena.

Dr. St. Bernard is the Co-author of one book entitled Behind the Bridge—Power, Politics and Patronage in Laventille, Trinidad (1997) and a monograph entitled Adult Literacy in Trinidad and Tobago—A Study of the Findings of the National Literacy Survey 1995. In 1996, he authored yet another monograph 1990–1991 Population and Housing Census of the Commonwealth Caribbean—National Census Report: St. Lucia. Since 1994, Dr., St. Bernard has authored numerous scholarly studies that have appeared in peer-reviewed journals, chapters in edited books and in a variety of formats in other academic media. He has also been the author of a number of technical papers.

In 2012–2013, he was the President of the Caribbean Studies Association (CSA) and continues to serve the CSA sharing his experience with its membership. Dr. St. Bernard is also a member of a number of other prestigious professional associations including the International Union for the Scientific Study of Population (IUSSP), International Sociological Association (ISA), and Population Association of America (PAA). Currently, he is the Chairperson of the SALISES Cluster on Population and Sustainable Development and continues to serve as an allied researcher in other SALISES Clusters including those on Youth Development and Sustainable Rural and Agricultural Development.

Godfrey A. Steele, Ph.D. is Professor of Human Communication Studies at The University of the West Indies (The UWI), St. Augustine, Trinidad and Tobago. Godfrey researches communication studies education (student engagement, assessment and evaluation in social and learning contexts); health communication (doctor-patient communication pedagogy and curriculum); conflict management, culture and communication intersections (in interpersonal, legal, environmental, political and governance, organizational, health, mediated and indigenous community contexts). He has also presented and published papers in conflict management and mediation since 2002, has considerable experience as a programme innovator and coordinator at undergraduate and postgraduate levels since 1995, has served throughout The UWI at faculty, campus, and university-wide levels and contributed public service at national, regional and international levels.

He teaches courses in human communication theory, health communication theory, organizational and corporate communications, public relations communication, communication research methods and communication research writing. Godfrey is a Premium Teaching Award winner at The UWI (2000) and has published Health communication in the Caribbean and beyond: A reader (2011) and Health communication: Principles and practices (2019) (UWI Press). Author of 51 refereed articles, book chapters, books/journals in conflict management, health communication and human communication studies and 13 non-refereed articles, he also has over 80 submitted/accepted conference papers in these areas. To learn more, visit his website <https://sta.uwi.edu/FHE/dlcc/prof-godfrey-steele> or email Godfrey.Steele@sta.uwi.edu.

Jacqueline H. Stephenson, Ph.D. is a Lecturer in Human Resource Management, with the Department of Management Studies, University of the West Indies, St. Augustine Campus. Dr. Stephenson read for a doctoral degree in Human Resource Management at the University of Nottingham (UK), and her research interests include fairness and equality at work, discrimination, diversity, and inclusion within organizations. To wit, she has published several articles and book chapters in these areas. Dr. Stephenson teaches several undergraduate and post-graduate courses in human resource management, organizational behavior, and human resource development.

Dr. Michelle Thomas is an Associate Lecturer at Beijing Concord College of Sino-Canada in Asia. She completed her Ph.D. at Nova Southeastern University, Florida in Conflict Management and Resolution Studies, and her masters and undergraduate studies at the University of the West Indies, St. Augustine, Trinidad. Dr. Thomas specializes in interpersonal conflict management and intimate partner violence. Her research interests lie in the areas of interpersonal conflict, IPV, and male perpetration in the Caribbean. Dr. Thomas is a National Scholar and a Qualitative Research Expert.

LIST OF FIGURES

Fig. 4.1	Baddesse flyer (Courtesy DCFA)	44
Fig. 11.1	Source Thomas's Dissertation (2018)	182
Fig. 11.2	Gender of victims of DV (2007–2012) Source Crime and Problem Analysis Branch of the TTPS (2014)	183

LIST OF TABLES

Table 8.1	Domestic violence according to racial groups—2009–2012	135
Table 11.1	Victims of domestic violence for the years 2015 and January 1–July 31 2016	178
Table 13.1	Categorization of Economic costs incurred by women fishers and the state	225
Table 16.1	Questionnaire content by Section	291
Table 16.2	Key Properties and Estimates of the Prevalence of Intimate Partner Violence	292